

MEDIA-ALLIANCE SOFTWARE LICENSE AGREEMENT

This agreement is between Media-Alliance srl. (together with its affiliates) and you. Please read this agreement carefully. These terms apply to the Media-Alliance software, along with the media on which you received it (if any) or by downloading (from WEB, HTTP, FTP, etc.). These terms also apply to any updates, support services, or Internet services for the software, unless other terms accompany those items. If so, those terms apply. The Media-Alliance software you have licensed may include locked software that you may choose to license and activate in the future. If you choose to do so, these terms will apply, unless other terms are presented to you when you license and activate the software.

By using the software, you accept these terms. If you do not accept them, do not use the software. Instead, return it to Media-Alliance.

If you are a consumer, you may have additional or different rights. Please read this entire agreement, including section H (Consumer Rights Not Affected), for more information.

The software may be distributed with components from other vendors that are subject to different terms. Please read this entire agreement, including sections 7 (Third Party Software) and 8 (Third Party Information), for more information.

1. LIMITED RIGHTS TO INSTALL AND USE THE SOFTWARE. Media-Alliance grants you the following rights, subject to your purchase of the corresponding software license (if applicable) and the terms and conditions below:

1.1. Device (“node locked”) license. You may install one copy of the software on one hardware device and use the software on only that device for your internal business or your personal enjoyment.

1.2. Volume license. For each volume license that you purchase, you may install one copy of the software on one hardware device and use the software on only that device for your internal business or your personal enjoyment. You may deactivate licensed devices and redeploy your purchased volume licenses to different devices within your internal computer network using the administration tools provided to you by Media-Alliance.

1.3. Concurrent user (“floating”) license. You may install one or more copies of the software on hardware devices within your internal computer network for your internal use. The software may be used concurrently by a number of individuals equal to or less than the number of concurrent user licenses you have purchased. This right is limited to the country in which you acquire the license, unless you acquire the license in the European Union or the European Free Trade Association, in which the case this right is limited to the member countries of the European Union and the European Free Trade Association.

1.4. Commuter license. You may install one or more copies of the software on hardware devices within your internal computer network for your internal use. The software may be used concurrently by a number of individuals equal to or less than the number of concurrent user licenses you have purchased. In addition, licenses may be assigned to individual hardware devices for use outside of your internal computer network. When a license is assigned to an individual device, that license no longer is available for use by concurrent users on your computer network. These rights are limited to the country in which you acquire the license, unless you acquire the license in the European Union or the European Free Trade Association, in which the case these rights are limited to the member countries of the European Union and the European Free Trade Association.

1.5. Rental license. If the software was bundled by Media-Alliance with a hardware device and offered together as a system, you may rent the system to others for a temporary, defined period provided that: (a) you ensure that each renter complies with this agreement; (b) you remain responsible for all of your obligations under this agreement; (c) you notify Media-Alliance, on request, of the location of all rented systems; and (d) you indemnify, defend, and hold Media-Alliance harmless from and against any claims or liabilities arising from your rental of Media-Alliance systems. You may not rent the software separate from the system or rent remote access to the software. Additional licenses for third party software distributed with the system may be required.

1.6. Hardware key (“dongle”) license. Some software requires a special hardware key to function. You may install such software on multiple hardware devices, but you may only use the software on one hardware device at a time, and only in connection with your properly authorized hardware key.

1.7. Free download license. You may download, install, and use the software for your internal business use or your own personal enjoyment, but you may not redistribute the software.

2. LIMITED RIGHTS TO MEDIA ELEMENTS. The software may include certain pictures, animations, sounds, music and video clips for your reuse. You may create your own works based upon these media elements, and copy, modify, distribute, display, and perform your derivative works provided that:

2.1. you indemnify, defend, and hold Media-Alliance harmless from and against any claims or liabilities arising from your use of the media elements;

2.2. you include a valid copyright notice on your derivative works.

You may not sell, license or distribute the media elements by themselves or as part of any collection, product or service whose value is derived solely or primarily from the media elements themselves.

9.3. Software upgrades. If you have upgraded your software, you may not separately transfer the original software and the upgraded software.

10. CONSENT TO USE OF DATA. Media-Alliance may request to collect and use technical information about the software and the hardware devices you use in connection with the software in a manner that does not personally identify you.

11. EXPORT RESTRICTIONS. The software is subject to European export laws and regulations. If you are subject to European law, you must comply with these laws and any other applicable laws and regulations that apply to the software. These laws include restrictions on destinations, end users and end use.

12. TERMINATION. To the extent permitted by law, and without prejudice to any other rights, Media-Alliance may terminate your license if you materially breach these terms and conditions.

13. LIMITATION ON AND EXCLUSION OF DAMAGES. Except for liability for death or personal injury caused by Media-Alliance's negligence or fraud, or other liability that cannot lawfully be excluded or restricted, you may recover from Media-Alliance and its suppliers only direct damages up to the amount you paid for the software. You cannot recover lost profits, data loss, business damage, damages that are not reasonably foreseeable, or any other loss or damages including consequential, special, indirect or incidental damages.

This limitation applies to:

- the software and anything related to it;
- services provided in connection with the software;
- hardware provided with the software;
- third party content, including programs and information; and
- claims for breach of contract, breach of warranty, guarantee or condition, strict liability, negligence, or other tort to the extent permitted by applicable law.

It also applies even if:

- repair, replacement or a refund for the software does not fully compensate you for any losses; or
- Media-Alliance knew or should have known about the possibility of the damages.

14. NOTICE TO U.S. GOVERNMENT END USERS. The software is a "commercial item," as that term is defined in 48 C.F.R. 2.101 (Oct. 2005), consisting of "commercial computer software" and "commercial computer software documentation," as such terms are used in 48 C.F.R. 12.212 (Sept. 2005). The laws of the state where you reside govern all other claims, including claims under state consumer protection and unfair competition laws.
